INSTABALLET TO PERFORM STUDENT CHOREOGRAPHY AT BRIDGEWAY SCHOOL

Springfield, Ore. – On September 18, 2015, Instaballet, a new, interactive way to experience ballet, will bring their unique talents to Bridgeway School, a private school for children with autism in Springfield. Bridgeway School students will help choreograph a ballet and watch the Instaballet dancers perform it. Children with autism frequently have a positive response to music and movement and movement therapy is a regular part of Bridgeway School curriculum, so Bridgeway House is excited that the students have the opportunity to try their hand at choreography and see professional ballet dancers in action. Parents of Bridgeway School students are welcome to attend.

Bridgeway House is grateful to NeuroSpine Institute and Sheppard Motors for sponsoring this opportunity for the students.

About Bridgeway House

Bridgeway House (www.bridgewayhouse.org) is a nonprofit organization that was founded in 2002 to offer developmental therapies, enrichment courses, and support to children and families of all income levels with autism and related disabilities. Bridgeway House's therapeutic programs are designed to help this diverse and ever-increasing group of children meet the challenges of autism and help their families with the emotional, financial, and social challenges they face. Services include therapies, social skills groups, summer camps, parent skills groups, family social events, an annual theatre production, and a private school for children with autism. Bridgeway House offers scholarships so their programs are affordable to families from all walks of life.
